The glitter almost lit up Pleasanton

PLEASANTON — The Valley may have once just missed being the nation's film capital.

A film company located briefly in Niles, in pre - World - War - I days, according to the reminiscence of Charles Hall of Second Street.

"Some of the earliest Westerns were made in this area," Hall says. "But the film company didn't get any backing, they say, so the movie industry located in Hollywood where the money was."

Pleasanton was the setting for parts of a score or more silent movies, town's dirt roads, tree - lined streets and graceful Victorian homes providing an attractive backdrop for the early stories.

Long - time residents remember "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," starring Mary Pickford in the title role, filmed here in 1916. Some of it was shot on the lawn of the Presbyterian Church at Second and Neal Streets.

The action spilled over onto other people's property, too — much to the delight of local residents.

During the shooting of "Rebecca," a horse rode across the front lawn of Emma Oliveira of 4582 Second Street.

Later, when the crew was leaving town, Emma was presented with a big 48 - star flag that had been one of the props.

Years later in the forties and fifties, Emma and her husband, Charles Hall, would fly it from the flagpole in their side yard on patriotic occasions.

But the side yard with the flagpole was sold off. The big flag, still in excellent condition, was folded into a hope chest, to be almost forgotten after Mrs. Hall died four years ago.

But the Bicentennial was coming, and when Charles Hall discovered the historic old flag a few weeks ago while cleaning out the hope chest, he decided to hang it up.

Not quite Hollywood

Charles Hall of Pleasanton has a souvenir dating back to 1916, when a film company came to town to shoot "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" with Mary Pickford. The souvenir is a flag, used as a prop and then presented to his late wife, Emma, as "thanks" for using her lawn as part of the set. Above, young Pickford (with parasol) romps through a scene in front of the Presbyterian Church at Second and Neal Streets. Others identified in the picture include Mary Pickford's mother, by the tree, Marjory Daw, Catherine Smallwood and Eleanor Martin.

Zone 7 board to skip Pearson for Lydiksen?

The newly - formed majority on the Zone 7 Board of Directors is expected tonight to elect George Lydiksen chairman of the board, bypassing director Robert Pearson who, as the only returning board officer, had been in line for the post.

Directors - elect Archer Futch, Ed Kinney and Gib Marguth will be officially sworn in as members of the board.

In their first official act, Kinney and Marguth are expected to side with senior board members Joseph Concannon and George Lydiksen in passing over Pearson as this year's board chairman.

With the re-election defeat of chairman David Harris and resignation of vice-chairman Robert Becker, Pearson, as secretary, is the only returning board officer who has not served as chairman.

Director Richard Ryon has not served as chairman either, while both Concannon and Lydiksen have chaired the board in years past.

In order to win the post, Pearson had counted on the support of Concannon, Ryon and Futch. But Pearson said he had been notified by Concannon that he could no longer support Pearson's candidacy since Pearson did not represent the board majority.

"In a way we did lose the election," Pearson admitted, "but always before this the board had rotated (the chairmanship)."

Pearson said, "I'd hate to see us start out with a split board and come up with a ruckus right away."

Ryon said he thought the Pearson bypass was a "poor omen for the future."

Asked to comment upon tonight's election, Concannon said, "It would be in extremely bad taste to discuss anything before we came to a vote."

Just returning from vacation yesterday, Lydiksen was surprised to learn he might be elected chairman. "No one's talked to me. This is the first I've heard of it," he said.

Director - elect Marguth said he was "unalterably opposed to the rotation process" and declared it was "incumbent upon the board to choose an individual who can in all conscience speak for a consensus on the board."

Marguth said he would prefer that Pearson not be chairman, and assumed that either Lydiksen or Concannon would emerge as chairman.

Marguth said that after the zone election this June, he spoke with Kinney and the two agreed that "it would make no sense for a person coming onto the board to be chairman.

"We decided we'd prefer to see a senior member of the board as chairman," Marguth said, adding that he didn't think Pearson could fairly represent a consensus of the board.

The power of the chairmanship rests chiefly in the delegation of committee assignments. Other responsibilities include directing the zone's monthly meetings and representing the zone in appearances before public agencies.

The hassle over the chairmanship follows a hard-fought battle for three seats on the zone board. With the board majority at stake, the election was viewed as critical to setting the zone's direction in the next few years.

Pleasanton Day at fair dropped

Pleasanton Day at the Fair has been cancelled. The cancellation came about when a "lack of sufficient reservations" were made for the barbecue to gaurantee good attendance.

This is the first time in the history of the Chamber that the event has been cancelled.

The community hour sponsored by the Pleasanton Recreation Department, however, will take place at 2 p.m. in the Court of Four Seasons.

Fallon House funds lost to Hayward

The $6,953 the Dublin Historical Society counted on to restore the old Murray School has flown out the window.

The Alameda County Parks Advisory Commission voted last Thursday to give the money to the restoration of two old homes in Castro Valley and Hayward.

The money originally was intended for the restoration of Fallon House, but after that burned down May 21 the historical society asked that it be given for restoration of the old Murray School, which valley motorists who traveled I-580 know better as the old Primitive Baptist Church.

Judy Earl, president of the historical society, thought that the item was to be postponed and did not attend the meeting Thursday because she was traveling in the East.

Jerry Wallace, a county planner who serves as staff for the commission, was unaware of any scheduled postponement of the item. He said he was surprised there was no representative present from the historical society.

A $4,950 grant awarded the DHPA by the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission of California was not affected by the loss of the Fallon House. Those funds were given for restoration of the Old Murray School as the first stage in completing a Heritage Center, of which the Fallon House was to have been a part.

The ARBC funds must be spent before Dec. 1.

Money bill thought to aid schools

DUBLIN — Passage of SB-1641, a money bill for schools, may have the ultimate effect of keeping the Amador Valley Joint High School District "afloat for another year."

Along with an armada of other districts throughout the state.

Doug Rose, assistant superintendent of business services, advised Amador trustees last night the bill, passed into law by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. last Friday, could generate $175,000 for the district.

However, Rose believes SB-1641 may be diluted by trade-off dollars in the total state budget. Rodda bill was the lone hope of districts throughout the state after others had been killed or dissolved under Brown's blue pencil.

Rose reminded trustees of the district's "squeeze factor" (87 per cent — what the district might get of the total amount), and said the adult education program still has no funding cap on it and no identity division will be made any longer (under 21, over 21) on adult education students.

Rose felt it would be two or three days more before the district was fully knowledgeable about the impact of 1641.

In other business, the board heard reports on the School Attendence Review Board status from Candy Ingram from Hotline and Pat Nordin of the Pleasanton Police Department.

The school plans to increase its para - professional help at each of the high schools so that follow-up calls can be made on delinquent students.

Bicentennial complaints reach local police

Two formal complaints and six letters have been filed with the Pleasanton Police Department concerning an officer who allegedly sped down Main Street in response to an emergency during the Bicentennial Parade held Sunday, June 27.

The complaints came from the leader of the Weldonains Band of the Bay Area and a parent with letters from other participants in the parade as well as eye witnesses. The Weldonains was the band immediately involved in the incident and whose leaders felt their children were placed in "extreme danger."

The 1:50 p.m. incident occurred at Main and Division Streets while the Weldonians Band was performing for the judges in front of the Pleasanton Police Department on Main Street.

The band members neither heard nor saw the police vehicle approaching in response to a "Code 3" dispatch given to the officer in reply to "a possible heart attack" at one of the bars on Main Street.

Eye witnesses along the parade route say the officer drove on to Main Street from Angela Street at a speed, in their opinion, that was unsafe for prevailing conditions, causing the police car to "fishtail" down Main.

A police officer stationed at Main and Division as well as spectators of the parade rushed out into the street to help the unaware performers to safety.

A check into the emergency gave indications from a reliable source that a lady had passed out on the sidewalk and was taken into the bar out of the heat until the ambulance arrived to take her to the hospital.

According to the patient admitted to the hospital, she was "treated for severe pains in her chest, remained in intensive care for two days and then transferred to a ward until discharged from Valley Memorial Hospital in Livermore."

The complaints and letters ask the police department to take corrective measures in dealing with the officer who they felt reacted "unjustly and who could have taken a safer route."

Persons who were in charge of the parade as well as witnesses to the occurrence also are working with the Police Department in hopes of having the officer "reprimanded in order to avoid such incidents from happening again during future parades."

The committee as well as viewers of the parade, felt the "other patrol car and a firetruck responded to the same emergency with due caution."

Parade chairpersons are also unhappy with Lt. David Freeman in the way he handled the situation following a meeting with him on Monday, June 28.

Feed the kids and beat the bureaucracy

They start lining up about 11:30 in the morning — no pushing, no shoving, just patiently waiting for the daily free lunch — the children of Komandorski Village.

"The Village" is that group of World War II remnants of federal housing located on Dougherty Road about five miles from the well-manicured lawns of Pleasanton's Black Avenue Recreational Center. Three hundred children under the age of 18 living in Komandorski qualify for the free lunches because of low income. The program is being funded by a portion of an estimated $40,000 grant from the State Department of Education.

It is being locally offered through the Alameda County Training and Employment Board (ACTEB) and the Association of Community Action Programs (ACAP), designed to assure proper nutrition during the summertime for children that participated in the lunch program during the regular school year. All of these children fall under the jurisdiction of Pleasanton's schools.

Sites where the lunches are distributed are also supposed to offer recreation activities in conjunction with the lunches and proper supervision during the meals.

This recreation and supervision at Komandorski is being carried out by the Neighborhood Youth Corps under the leadership of 21-year-old San Jose State student, Allen Arsenault.

With the help of Dublin High School students, he daily oversees the recreational management of children from the pre - kindergarten level to the older teens. The work he took on is not a problem. But the soft-spoken tall Allen has warm - brown intelligent eyes that mirror frustration as he speaks of the many things he isn't able to plan for Komandorski Village.

Because of their isolation from the "free" recreation facilities at Black Avenue, and the lack of transportation, Komandorski Village must supply its own form of recreation. Allen feels a loyalty to these children because he, himself, has lived in "The Village" since 1972.

The 1973 graduate of Dublin High and oldest of a family of six children, knows how much the geographical isolation from Pleasanton has resulted in depriving Komandorski from many of the activities offered to the "city" children. Busses are too expensive for them to rent for excursions to the parks, beaches, zoo or mountains.

If they want to plan excursions, they must first make certain they can provide private transportation. Sometimes these activities have to be limited to as few as five or six younsters because that's all the transportation they can get.

Yet, a greater frustration to Allen, was to learn that the same children that qualify for free lunches, by another federal standard of measurement, do not qualify for the ACAP recreational money stipulated for low-income. Some $10,000 in funds for recreation for the low income available but cannot be released because not enough of the residents "qualify."

In order to qualify a family may not earn over $6,000 a year. In going door - to - door and personally helping people fill out the federal forms, Allen found that out of 50 applications sent in only 15 qualified. One family of eight could not qualify because the wage - earner was making $6100.

In answer to questions of the possible release of these funds, Pleasanton councilwoman Joyce LeClaire expressed "surprise, shock and con-

Votomatic system a big success

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — The county's new million dollar voting system inaugurated in the June 8 primary election "performed as well as or better than anticipated," according to registrar of voters James Riggs, and saved the county more than $70,000 in its initial run.

Complaints were minimal, Riggs said in recommending the board of supervisors continue the three year, $997,000 lease/purchase agreement, and were limited to pre-election preparation and polling place operations.

"No significant problems developed in the vote tabulation or election night operations," he said.

More than 99 per cent of the precincts were tabulated by 1:15 a.m. with accuracy and reliability checked through a "manual tally of selected precincts," including a complete recount of the Pleasanton School bond measure.

Supervisors voted last November to replace the Cubic Corporations' Vontronics system with the newer, locally developed Computer Elections Systems' Votomatic. Cubic's system is being sold back to the San Diego firm for $80,000. The CES Votomatic was developed by a Berkeley firm.

Supervisors voted unanimously to continue the agreement.

Pickets target Cooper

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Any fresh outlook toward a settlement in the 36-day-old county employes strike turned sour after more than 300 striking employes, angry at an aborted negotiations session they believe might have ended the walkout, stormed the board of supervisors chambers yesterday morning demanding an explanation and an apology from board chairman Fred Cooper.

They left in the late afternoon after threatening to escalate their tactics and vowing to open a new, personal front against Cooper.

Meanwhile, horse racing at the 64th annual county fair again was cancelled.

Alameda County Central Labor Council executive Dick Groulx and supervisor Joseph Bort had agreed to a Monday meeting between the full board and union leaders. It would have been the first head-to-head negotiating session in more than a week.

But the meeting was cancelled abruptly when Groulx was told Bort lacked the authority to call the session.

"I have to conclude that Mr. Cooper called off the meeting," snapped Groulx. "We might have had a chance to settle this thing. (Cooper's) behavior was totally uncalled for and borders on the psychotic.

"What the hell happened to our meeting?"

Cooper, visibly upset by the confrontation and personal attacks, said the meeting was cancelled "by this board, not me individually."

Union leaders plan a "caravan to Cooperland" today, a trip from Highland General Hospital through East Oakland and Alameda, Cooper's supervisorial district.

"Fred the invisible one is going to be visible this week," a spokesman bullhorned to the chambers' crowd.

Friday's agenda calls for a noon march down Broadway in downtown Oakland to draw attention to what union leaders call Cooper's attempts at "union busting."

Strikers reportedly followed Cooper to lunch at Jack London Square yesterday, demonstrating outside the restaurant as the board chairman dined inside.

Frustrated at Cooper's refusal to face them in the afternoon session — Bort was sent to make all announcements — strikers chased the chairman down three flights of stairs when he tried to leave the the board's fifth floor offices.

About a dozen of his pursuers corraled him in an elevator on the second floor, screaming "We wanna' negotiate" as they rode with him and a reporter to the basement and out to the county parking lot.

Cooper, his neck and face flushed, stared straight ahead, refusing to recognize them.

Bort said the board voted "unanimously" to turn down the union's latest offer, reportedly 4 per cent now and 2 per cent in January.

But supervisor Tom Bates, who cast the lone dissenting vote in the salary ordinance that touched off the strike, said his no vote was against the union's 7.6 per cent demand.

"The problem is negotiations," said Bates. "Somebody's got to get them started."

The 7.6 per cent pay and fringe package, one union leaders say matches the raise granted management employes, will cost $2.6 million, Bort said, and is "totally unacceptable."

"Your figures are goofy," replied Groulx.

"If you (union leaders) come in with a lower offer, the county's willing to negotiate," Bort said.

Groulx, squashing calls for a general strike, said he wants "someone with the authority to negotiate, not an errand boy to run back and forth with messages."

He charged the county with inflating attendance figures by hiring "scabs."

Department managers are "padding their budgets," he said, to hire personnel in "unfilled positions. That's the definition of a scab, Mr. Bort."

During the summer months the children of Komandorski Village are receiving a daily free bag lunch, which consists of a sandwich, fruit, vegetable, dessert and milk. cern," if the unavailability of these funds was actually true. As a member of the governing board of ACAP, she promised to "look into the matter as soon as possible."

Bob Caporusso, head of Pleasanton's Recreation Department, was on vacation and not available for comment.

These bureaucratic hang-ups may have frustrated Allen, but they haven't completely discouraged or slowed up his efforts. With the help of his "corps," he has the Teen Center slicked-up for a varied recreation program which is offered every night of the week. All the pool and game tables have been donated. He would like a juke box for the kids, but, in the meantime, the record player will do fine.

A summer soccer camp will be held for those 14 and under. He is determined to do as much as his limited funds will allow for the eight to thirteen - year - olds — his largest group.

Although Allen, a computer science major, has lived in many foreign countries during his father's military stint, he is not bi-lingual. Since many of the children for which he is responsible cannot speak English, Hotline of Pleasanton, sends out a bilingual out-reach worker twice a week for counseling.

With this kind of encouragement, Allen Arsenault will go on supplementing the ou recreational nurishment the children of Komandorski Village need along with the popular free lunches.

Race hopes dim

The Alameda County Fair Association may be forced into a holding action in the remaining days of the Fair as hopes for racing fade and exhibitors eye the next stop on the circuit, the Sonoma County Fair in Santa Rosa.

Sonoma, which has no such strike and picket conditions that the Fair in Pleasanton has operated under, has requested a two-day earlier start for its horse racing season.

Today's racing card was cancelled, leaving just three possible days left. Racing secretary Charles Dougherty accepted entries for Thursday, maintaining his 48-hour headway for entries though the county employees strike showed no signs of being breached.

A season-record crowd of 26,010 was counted through the turnstiles Monday, despite the "no racing" notice and ban on fireworks for a second year.

Though no precise count could be gathered, it is likely the number of horses quartered at Pleasanton may be under 300 as owners look toward the meeting at Santa Rosa.

Though they were okayed to stay open until midnight over the weekend, exhibitors' hours were returned to the prevailing 10 a.m to 10 p.m. schedule.

Today is Pleasanton Day and Kids Day at the Fair, though the Pleasanton chamber has cancelled its annual evening barbecue. While the Fair moved into the middle of its second week, rumors continued to abound on the possibility of lawsuits and whether the racing dates for Pleasanton would be assigned to another track or reassigned here during the fall.

Paved roads doom Pleasanton movies

"We didn't have a flagpole, so I just hung it on the porch," he explains. It forms a translucent curtain across the front of the vintage old home, reminding neighbors old enough to remember, of the short reign Pleasanton enjoyed in the movie world.

The town's cinematic career came to an end when "some idiot paved Main Street." But there was a brief revival in 1941, when Bud Abbott and Lou Costello used the Pleasanton race track in a portion of "It Ain't Hay." Local residents were used as extras in that movie.

Then attention shifted to Livermore, where movies somewhat less than classic were produced: "Warlock Moon," a Grade Z horror thriller, on the grounds of the Del Valle Sanitarium, in 1972; and "Sodom and Gomorrah," a porn movie, in the Altamont hills in '74.

Nobody wants to know which town will be chosen for the next honor...

Budget approved after fight

PLEASANTON — The city finally approved its budget at the end of June, but not until it witnessed one of the stiffest fights in recent years about just what should happen to the tax rate.

The two council members in the minority, Frank Brandes and Ken Mercer, were elected to their terms this year. Does this reflect a change of mood on the voters' part, with an emphasis toward rolling back city services?

It's not clear, but there are some interesting thoughts on both sides of the question. There really were three philosophies represented in the discussion. The council majority could be summed up by LeClaire's commments to the The Times.

"No one has disagreed with the philosophy of cutting taxes, but once one has been on the council for some time and appreciates costs and the inflation factor, we become more realistic about what can be done," said LeClaire. "Some of the proposals sounded wonderful on paper, but were reckless."

Even the majority of the council cut some expenses that 5 cent tax rate increase. Included were cutting the travel budget for the city council, city manager and city attorney by 25 per cent. The city manager was given instructions to cut the utility bill for the various city buildings by 4 per cent. A request for a car wash rack in the city corporation yard went unfunded.

SB 90 would have allowed an 8 cent hike, but the council majority kept it to 5 cents. As Mayor Robert Philcox said in a memo recently, the city budget is only a small chunk of the tax bite anyway. Most of the tax dollar goes to Alameda County and the local school districts. A taxpayer in a $50,000 house in Pleasanton will pay only $6 a year to the city, and it's quite a bargain considering all the services he or she receives.

The minority voters on the budget, Frank Brandes and Ken Mercer, called for more cuts in the budget which would have prevented a tax increase. Mercer concentrated on cutting the travel budget even more for various staff positions. He also wants the city to forget about leasing the council chambers and move into Amador Community Park or some other building which he thinks could be adapted to city council meetings.

Brandes felt that three city hall positions should get the axe, including a public works director, city manager assistant, and the assistant city attorney. Of course, neither got the necessary three votes to accomplish the cuts. But they did manage to push for cutting the flow of capital improvement funds over to the general fund. In a sense, this was "deficit financing", or robbing Peter to pay Paul, though strictly speaking, since there was tax money coming in to pay for all of it, it was not running the city budget into the red ink.

Teaching VP position under board scrutiny

PLEASANTON— The oft-debated teaching vice principal position will come under Pleasanton Joint School District board scrutiny at tonight's regular board meeting.

Trustees convene at 7:30 p.m. at the District Educational Center, 123 Main St.

The Amador Valley Teachers Association, more than a year ago, urged that all TVPs in the district be reassigned to the classroom to ease the teacher/ pupil ratio.

Instead, the positions were retained during the past school year and no change in that status is expected for 1976-77. Duties of the TVPs vary from school to school, the amount of time spent on administrative duties depending on the work load of the principal.

Assigned as teaching vice principals last year were Del Warren, Alisal; Kay Bolles, Fairlands; Ron Dell'Immagine, Pleasanton; Lee Zachariades, Valley View; Phyllis Clark, Vintage Hills; Tom Ingham, Walnut Grove.

Harvest Park, because of its large enrollment, has two administrators, principal Dale Hudson and assistant principal Bob Tanghe, and Pleasanton, in line with the enrollment formula has "2 1/2"— principal Ron Alsup, vice principal Dave Cook and Dell'Immagine.

Trustees will also act on a host of resolutions, hear an evaluation report for categorical aid programs and a report on certificated personnel.

Leppke to speak

LIVERMORE — A former Livermore Unified School District administrator will be on radio Saturday evening talking about parent effectiveness training.

Dr. Ronald Leppke, former pupil personnel director in charge of Livermore's psychology, counseling and attendance programs, will be on KSFO, 560 on the AM dial, 7 to 8 p.m. He'll be interviewed by Julia Hare, KSFO's director of community affairs.

Hare starts off the interview by asking Leppke whether there are alternatives to hitting children as discipline, or on the other hand being completely permissive.

Leppke responds with an hour's worth of advice, tips and explanations on how to deal with children without resorting to inhumane and ineffective means such as hurting them.

While in Livermore (he resigned two years ago), Leppke had headed a committee to abolish spanking as a punishment in the schools. At the time, he had heavy opposition; the policy finally passed the school board recently.

Leppke is now an independent senior associate of Effectiveness Training, Inc. of San Diego. He leads advanced training workshops on a national level to train the teachers who will in turn teach parent effectiveness training.

The place where women are taken seriously

By JEAN McKENNA

The questions are familiar and worn-out, somehow out-of-place yet necessary — "Where do you stand in the women's liberation movement? Are you radical, moderate or conservative? What kinds of women do you appeal to?"

The two coordinators at the South County Women's Center, accustomed to handling crises and finding answers to very difficult problems, fielded the question with remarkable grace.

"We are SERIOUS about helping women." That was an answer in a nutshell, for the South County Women's Center serves women of all ages, all lifestyles, and all political persuasions. Just as women fit no stereotype, the staff members at the center fit no single mold.

"Our similarity," explained Maria Ochoa y Valtierra, "is that women's needs are the most important thing to us right now." The staff of ten coordinators and counselors at the center gives a full-time commitment for part-time salaries (approximately $400 per month) funded by Alameda County federal revenue - sharing.

The collective of professional counselors and administrators rents a house in Hayward just below the Cal-State campus on Carlos Bee Street. Several simply - furnished, but comfortable sitting rooms have been set up, in addition to well-used kitchen facilities, files crammed with over 700 references, and walls full of posted information.

Although the center is nothing fancy or even very attractive, the atmosphere there makes it something special. You can tell it's a place where people are more important than appearances.

Visitors are immediately put at ease by the informal, personal approach. Counselors at the center are not only willing to lend a sympathetic ear to a woman, they have answers! Services include employment and career counseling, educational workshops, childcare information, a talent bank and lending library, assertiveness training, legal counseling, crisis intervention and more.

Programs offered by the center are based on specific needs expressed by women from the entire Southern Alameda County area.

"In other words, we don't just set up programs and say take it or leave it," explains Coordinator Suzanne DuPont. "For example, last January when unemployment was high, we expanded our employment counselling and job-finding workshops. Right now, assertiveness training is really a hot item, so we plan to offer more help in that area."

The center receives between 30 and 50 calls a month from women who are in the middle of a personal crisis and desperately need someone to listen and offer advice. All staff members at the center are trained to handle such emergencies, and feel a serious responsibility to "be there."

Traditional counselling may pressure a woman to merely "conform," so the center offers bias - free feminist counselling that encourages a woman to be herself. Those who request individual or group counselling may make a donation for the service based on financial ability to pay.

One thousand copies of the newsletter put out by the South County Women's Center are readied for mailing (right). Files and bullentin boards at the center are filled with information for women (left).

"This is a real service to middle - class women especially, who do not qualify for government aid but cannot bring themselves to ask a husband or family to pay for counselling," said Suzanne. Suggested donations on a sliding scale do not exceed $15 per session.

Upcoming summer programs at the center, open to all valley women, include an eight - session consciousness - raising group which begins Tuesday, July 20 at 7:30 p.m., and home repair and auto repair workshops slated for August. A popular continuing program is one called "Women in Transition" designed for women in the midst of an important change in their life such as motherhood, unemployment or employment, death of a husband, departure of the last child from home, or over-40 blues.

The center currently serves about 1,000 women per month, with 20 per cent of thwt number coming from the Livermore - Amador Valley. Staff members at the center are more than willing to help any group of valley women interested in starting a women's service center locally. But until the Alameda County Board of Supervisors allocates more money to the center, valley women will have to travel to Hayward to participate in programs sponsored by the South County Women's Center.

"Two years ago, when we first requested funding from the county, it was a tough battle," admits Suzanne. "Now, since the Alameda County Commission on the Status of Women has been founded, the idea of special women's services is more acceptable, but it is still difficult to convince the board of supervisors that we serve a real, permanent and growing need."

The center is open Monday through Friday from 1 to 5 p.m. for drop-in and business activities; nights and weekends for scheduled activities. It is located on Carlos Bee Street, east off Mission Boulevard in Hayward. (Off Interstate 580, take B Street to Foothill Boulevard which becomes Mission). The center telephone number is 537-2112.

The center's reason for being is expressed in these words printed on its regular newsletter:

"Women have traditionally been oppressed and limited by society solely because we are women. In reality, we have unlimited potential and capacity for growth and change.

"The South County Women's Center exists to provide women a place to direct our energies and talents in the liberation of our sisters, as well as, to gain support during the crises and changes in our lives."

New Dublin boom old Valley issue

Scratch Geldertown. Push Pleasanton's Stoneridge Regional Center onto the back burner. The "Valley's big growth question" now shifts to Dublin - San Ramon. And what a shift!

Plans for a 2000 - dwelling subdivision that would eat up a most of Dublin's remaining "open space" and spill over the county line into San Ramon rate as the Valley's No. 1 growth problem for 1976. And possibly for the next two or three years.

No longer is the threat of Harlan Gelderman's "Las Positas New Town" the major threat to Valley environment. No longer can Livermore and the Valley Community Services District point with alarm at "City of Pleasanton's passion for growth and commerce" as this basin's spoiler.

Now it is Dublin that is back in the spotlight. Back in the position that once little - known stretch of grazing land achieved when Volk - McLain Communities" first broke on the scene, and busted forever this Valley's "country quiet" in favor of V-M's dreams of city - close profits.

The boom in housing, in commerce and in freeways that was triggered in large part by the great Volk - McLain gamble has shifted from one end of the Valley to the other over the succeeding 15 years. Lately it has been San Ramon Valley that has quietly taken over the new - home leadership, as the southern reaches of that basin reacted with alarm to "the threat to our air and our environment."

But, just like the octopus that will not long be contained in a shopping bag, the promise of change within this 600 - square - mile expanse will not easily be confined by any one local agency, looking just to its provincial needs.

So now it is Dublin again, back in the growth spotlight. We can hardly wait for the reaction of those VCSD board members who could find no reason to expand that important utility's capacity for the promise of growth south of the freeway. Now that the development is closer to home, VCSD is going to be faced with a tough decision ... not unlike the complex legal and political question Livermore and Pleasanton have been grappling with for lo' these many months.

Now that we're all in one boat, maybe the full Valley crew will start rowing in the same direction. Sailing around in circles sure hasn't been much fun.

Canadian goof

In this troubled old world where politics and national passion seem to prevail over simple reason, most of us have been naive enough to believe that the Olympics were the last tangible evidence that men and women of different nations could compete could on something other than a field of war.

But Canada's strange reaction to the Olympic entry from "Republic of China" seems to shoot down even that one hope of international understanding.

The idea that one nation cannot submit an Olympic team under the only flag it has ever known is hard to believe. That the host country for an Olympiad could dictate the terms under which the representatives of any country might participate in those games is arrogant, and it is tragic.

It suggests that we have regressed to that time and that world when national borders mean everything, and international understanding is but a hollow promise.

The Dominion of Canada, which has emerged in recent years as a new leader in world affairs and a promising link between the United States and the Communist bloc, now threatens to throw away that position of leadership ... and all because Canada believes it must sacrifice the Taiwan - based Republic, in order to pacify Communist China.

That is a poor swap, and one this country should flatly reject, even it must mean rejecting the 1976 Olympics.

Sales tax income

This newspaper has made a practice over the years of informing our readers (and hopefully our civic leaders) of the sales tax income figures for cities of comparable size to Livermore and Pleasanton. With the growing importance of sales taxes as local revenue, we feel that local consumers, and city spenders, should understand where we are in the matter of suburbia's biggest industry — retail purchases.

The report just released by the State Board of Equalization for 1975, indicates that local government — and therefore local taxpayers — are still not getting anything like a reasonable share of the sales tax slice.

With $80 million in retail sales for the year, Livermore does reasonably well, but still far off the pace set by such comparable suburban cities as Los Gatos, $95 million in taxable transactions, and Pleasant Hill, $105 million. On a more rural measure, little Lodi has 50 percent more retail volume than Livermore.

Pleasanton fares much worse. With two - thirds of Livermore's population, Pleasanton does just over half it's neighbor's retail business. Centers such as Union City, Newark, Milpitas and Lafayette realize from $9 million to $20 million more in annual retail sales than does Pleasanton.

Precise sales records are not readily available for Dublin, but even there we know that the local taxpayer is gyped. There is no question of Dublin's busy retail activity, but since all of that sales tax revenue flows directly to the county treasury, the "home town profit" from Dublin's commerce is lost.

Blessed with a one percent slice off the top of its retail sales total as local income, many suburban cities are finding that revenue better than property tax as a "net" yield after deduction of related municipal costs. There is the additional benefit of having nearby stores — provided they are competitive in price and quality — catering to local needs, keeping our consumers off the freeways, and bringing this suburban scene closer to the "complete community experience."

Hindsight/Foresight

Cooper & Fair

One of the most significant items to come forth in the continuing Fair racing - county employees - unions embroglio is the position taken by County Supervisors chairman Fred Cooper.

Significant as regards the Alameda County Fair Association.

His position, as well as that of his fellow supervisors, has been unrelenting (and not necessarily significant) as far as the county employees and their salary demands.

What makes the Cooper - Fair Association relationship unique, as it stands right now, is his statement of about 10 days ago.

The statement flew directly in the face of all previous comments and attitudes the erudite Oaklander has expressed in the past.

Simply stated, Cooper had been a millstone around the Fair Association's neck, an irritant and the butt of a lot of Fair director jokes.

His position, though, was not without reason.

The uncertain relationship of the Fair Association to the county and the makeup of the Fair board was and is ripe for discriminate umbrage.

All the more surprising, then, when Cooper came out 10 days ago and reinforced the Fair board's oft-repeated description of itself as an independent body.

It was Cooper, along with Tom Bates, who had pressed for greater minority representation on the board and more accountability. Cooper, at one time or another, all but said there was "dead wood" on the Fair Association board that was overdue for cutting.

Politics— and strikes— make strange bed fellows.

Cooper may need all the bed follows, "strange" or otherwise in the coming days.

He has been singled out for union admonishment, the latest blast coming Monday from Shirley Campbell of the union strike committee. Mrs. Campbell said the union (Service Employees International Union) was planning "new tactics" directed against Cooper.

"The cancellation (of a negotiation meeting Monday afternoon) clearly identified our enemy," harangued Mrs. Campbell. It's Fred Cooper. We are planning new tactics for every day of the week and Fred Cooper will certainly be a part of those tactics."

She refused to elaborate.

However, it won't be surprising if Cooper finds union bodies camping out in his law offices again or notice of a law suit tucked in his mail box.

Why should he be any different.

If just half the rumors we hear are true, the courts are going to be busy for months sifting through various law suits.

It is unfortunate that the valley economy and and horsemen throughout Northern California are among those taking the body blow.

Letters to the Times

Help the Fair

Editor, The Times:

The members of the Help Our Fair Committee want to publicly thank Mr. Lee Hall and all the others at the Alameda County for all they have done to overcome the problems and put on the Fair this year.

We are not taking sides in the strike of the Alameda County workers but we think the unions have taken the wrong way to get public sympathy for their cause. Mr. David Kraemer (Business Representative, SEIU Local 535, Oakland) stated in his letter to the Oakland Tribune (June 17, 1976) that they "are not on strike against the people of Alameda County" but "against the high paid county management" and "politicians." We would like to point out to Mr. Kraemer and the others that the Alameda County Fair is not the county management or the politicians! It is the people of Alameda County, so if you try to harm the Fair you try to harm the people. Take the people away from the Fair and what have you left? Certainly not county management and politicians! You have an empty fairgrounds and many disappointed and hurt people of Alameda County.

We want to wish the best of everything to the Fair and we hope for a speedy settlement of the strike that will be favorable to all concerned.

The Help Our Fair Committee

Overcrossing need

Copy of a letter to—
Pleasanton City Council

As a Pleasanton resident I would like to express my opinion of the proposed West Las Positas overcrossing. Many residents east of 680 have cause to complain of the noise from Hopyard Road (and do so) and now we have residents west of 680 complaining that the proposed West Las Positas overcrossing will create unwanted traffic in the Muirwood/ Las Positas area.

I would be the first person to stand up and oppose this overcrossing, but I feel strongly that the needs of the entire community must best be served. Ensuring pedestrian safety and emergency vehicle availability are an absolute must! Furthermore, a closer safer route for school buses has to be a concern of every parent.

It is not easy to speak out on something that could ultimately lower the value of my home. However, my childrens welfare and the community I cherish take top priority! When we purchased our home six and a half years ago, we were told by the Val Vista sales office that the undeveloped property on the northwest corner of Hopyard and West Las Positas would be used for a park or small store such as 7-Eleven. You can imagine our surprise and dismay to learn a full size shopping center would be built! However, I must say the Val Vista shopping center has proven to be an asset to the community. It's to bad residents west of 680 don't have easy access to this center to help boost Pleasantons tax revenue. Instead they are having to boost Dublins tax revenue which isn't helping our city tax rate.

The property we purchased in Val Vista is located on Ruxton Court. It is a large pie shaped lot of which half backs up to Hopyard Road and half backs up to the Shopping Center (West Las Positas). It might be appropriate to say "We have double trouble!"

However, I feel it is imperative that the residents of Pleasanton set aside their emotions and personal desires to consider how we can all best serve the needs of and provide the safety for the whole community.

Parents agree

Copy of a letter to—
Pleasanton City Council

It is the opinion of the Donlon Parent Faculty Club that the proposed West Las Positas overcrossing should receive first priority to ensure the following;

1. Pedestrian Safety: Students presently cross freeway 680 on foot or crawl through culverts under the freeway.

2. Reduced Mileage for Students and Parents: Less gasoline would be used, therefore saving gas and reducing air pollution.

3. Reduced and Safer Busing Routes to Foothill High School: Foothills largest enrollment comes from east of freeway 680.

4. Emergency Vehicle Response: A vital necessity.

5. Access to Pleasanton Shopping: Pleasanton is losing valuable sales tax revenue.

We realize the funding constraints but feel our City Council and State Department of Transportation will want to do all they can to expediate this overcrossing before a death has resulted because of the lack of safety and emergency vehicle availability.

Too much!

A show of hands please. How many were overwhelmed by The Bicentennial? Is there anybody else out there with the empty feeling that history of momentous proportions passed through town last weekend, and that it left before we could truly appreciate it?

Our 200th birthday was a blowout celebration. Having missed repeal and V-J Day it's hard to say whether or not the Bicentennial was the biggest bash ever. It's got to be right up there with the rollicking best of them, however.

With one difference.

There was no spontaneous spark to ignite the 200th anniversary celebration. It was the outpouring of three years hard work and careful calculation.

It became a civic duty to honor the Bicentennial. Sort of like being forced to enjoy a New Year's Eve party, pointed out one CBS commentator.

Which is not to detract from America's celebration. It was grand. From the Indian pow wow on the Oklahoma plains to the sailing ship flotilla in New York harbor.

The problem was cramming 200 years worth of heritage into one Fourth of July Sunday. How in the world could anybody take it all in? We were afforded opportunity to participate, from the flag parade in Livermore to the festivals and street faires in Dublin and San Ramon.

But it was difficult to leave the house while the networks telecasted memorials from the gravesite of John Hancock, and fireworks displays over the Statue of Liberty.

It became a chore — as if we had been issued a Bicentennial checklist and had to fulfill at least 1,776 of the suggested patriotic things to do. We filled in the boxes next to swimming, baseball, lemonade and homemade ice cream. There were even a few contraband firecrackers.

But always there was the feeling that just over the hill, somebody was staging a more meaningful tribute to America. Somewhere else, the patriotic fervor was more pronounced.

Not everyone, from indications picked up in the day - long telecasts, suffered from Independence Day indecision. In New York City millions crammed the waterfront to witness a throwback to the age of sail. Just as many lined the streets of Philadelphia for a six-hour parade. In New Orleans they filled Jackson Square for a tribute to Louis Armstrong and that great Dixieland Jazz, and in Boston, they stood at the edge of the Charles River while Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops reintroduced John Phillip Souza to the young.

To those millions of revellers, the celebrations embodied The Bicentennial. There was no concern that on another Main Street in another town, a better parade might be passing by. The spirit of participation was sort of the spirit of America.

None of which eased the burden for those who sought an overview of Americana on this most special Fourth of July. These were the observers, for whom one band concert, or one historical reinactment failed to hold meaning. To them the entire panorama of Bicentennial was the essence — the assurance that a sense of nation and an appreciation of heritage still exists.

It was an exhausting day for the observer, trying to assimilate 200 years of America in 24 hours There was too much to fathom, too much to reflect on.

It was also a dangerous idea, planning a multi-billion dollar pat on the back for one July day.

What if it had rained?

FOR SALE — Large quantity of paint, red, white and blue. Also brush, used only once by elderly patriot. Consider any offer. Write Sam, P.O. Box 1976.

Personally, my greatest fear was that the Cubans would choose to invade us on the morning of July 6. A nation exhausted by all that celebrating would be in no condition to repel Fidel and his legions. Besides which, it would take five days of shelling from Castro's boats and rockets before New York and Miami would realize this wasn't just another fireworks' display.

And on live TV. With Wally Cronkite giving us his sensitive commentary ... "Ah yes, and there goes the Empire State Building, and what a sight that is, all that wonderful debris spread along Fifth Avenue ..."

A quick Nielsen survey indicates that 85 percent of America rates Wally Cronkite as "the most believeable reporter of our nation's Bicentennial." The same survey reveals that 95 percent of all Americans today have a headache. "Bicentennial migraine," the Surgeon General calls it.

Even President Ford isn't feeling so well, I am informed.

"It's his left eye," the president's personal physician states. "He was jabbed several times by a thumb during the long and arduous Bicentennial proceedings ... but I hasten to add the president says he would do it all over again, especially given that kind of nation - wide TV exposure."

Further investigation reveals the offending thumb belonged to Gerald Ford, his right hand.

"Damn you reporters," press secretary Ron Nessen said when our news staff tried to pin him down on this angle. "A simple thing like the president getting poked in the eye, and you guys make that the big Bicentennial story of the weekend."

"But Ron," our reporter persisted, "since it was the president's own thumb! And that left eye was jabbed over and over ... How come?"

Turned out the president jabbed himself during all that saluting. Flags in New York, flags in Boston, flags in Philadelphia. The president never could get the hang of the salute ... firm right hand, thumb tucked neatly under first finger.

"Just one question Ron," said Bernstein from the Post. "If the damage came from all that misguided saluting, then how come it was the president's LEFT eye that was hit? Are you trying to tell us that the president hit his left eye with his right thumb? ... or is it true (as I am reliably informed) that the president was saluting with his left hand ..."

The Gallup Poll this morning indicates that, if asked to ballot right now, 62 percent of registered Americans would choose Walter Cronkite as president. Most of the rest opt for Captain Schneider, the skipper of that Russian sailing ship.

There were mixed reactions to the nation's Bicentennial. In Cincinnati there are reports of the great flag rip - off. In Forks, Washington, the local constable is still trying to cool off 200 loggers and tourists who started celebrating in front of a Forks saloon Saturday night. Nine in the hospital. The bar's a wreck. The Forks Bicentennial Ball had to be cancelled. Terrible mess.

In Cayucos, California, the fireworks' fun turned into a bottle - throwing contest. Three cops are in bad shape. Four arrested, but promptly busted out by the fun - loving locals.

"It was, when you get down to it, a really swell birthday party." Rhoda said that to Wally, as they were wrapping things up on CBS - TV. Rhoda and Wally are happy. The president is tickled pink (Ron's very words) even if his left still hurts like blazes.

Everybody had a swell time. Well, almost everybody.

"200 Years of Oppression and Genocide." That's what a banner said in San Francisco. One well - intended leftist suggested the great Mainstream flow the hell out of here. "You Are On Our Land" he proclaimed. SF authorities billed it as "a peaceful march."

California Highway Patrol says that 40 people died on the state's highways over the July 4 weekend. "But that was one less than died in vehicular accidents one year ago," the CHP was quick to add. Governor Brown has called for a study of the significance of this one - less fatality. Observers believe it is a result of the governor's plea for "lowering your expectations."

FOR SALE — 900 Betsy Ross Flags. Would make attractive bed spread. To go with red, white and blue bedroom. Will throw in paint.

If you have any bright ideas on how to cure a very sore left eye, the White House would ba appreciative. And no smart - ass suggestions about "first cut off the right thumb." Nessen says he's had it up to here with that one.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're prone to take foolish risks today, both materially and where work or career is concerned. Leave your checkbook at home.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Guard against placing too much stock today in someone you're not sure is really deserving. You could be backing a loser!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Make realistic evaluations today. Don't try to kid yourself or others. You still can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It would be folly to be neglectful today and put major projects off till the last minute. As time grows short, so do your talents.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) It's nice to be generous, but it's just plain foolish to be too open-handed and so extravagant that you indulge all your whims today.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today, you may feel you have to come on strong to impress your friends. Being boastful does not become you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Very little will be gained today if you try to defend or expound upon issues you know nothing about. Silence can truly be golden for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Think twice today before you lend something to one who treats his possessions carelessly. Do you think he'll handle yours differently?

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Try not to misdirect your energies today in pursuit of goals that are of small purpose. Aim towards things that really matter.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Usually you're very self-reliant. Today you may try to palm off your duties at the first opportunity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Social gatherings you normally enjoy, ones with large groups of new faces, may not appeal to you today. It'll be tolerable if you don't expect too much.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Reevaluate your goals today. Something you have placed a high priority on acquiring may not be worth the price.

North glared at South and said, "If there were such a thing as a license to bid notrump, I would try to have yours revoked."

"What could I have done," replied South. "I could not help losing the spade finesse."

"No one was holding a gun to your head and ordering you to take it," continued North. "We were sure of game and rubber, if you rose with the ace and went after just nine tricks."

The spade finesse had lost. East had shifted to a heart and South had come up two tricks short. Of course, if the spade finesse had succeeded South would have made four notrump, not just three.

A match-point player might well have considered that spade finesse. Even at that game he would have noted that he had been lucky to get a spade lead, not a heart, and gone up with the ace of spades to insure his contract.

Ask the Jacobys

A Canadian reader wants to know the meaning of the expression "One peek is worth two finesses."

You shouldn't try to see your opponents' cards, but some players hold their hands so sloppily that you can't help seeing them. Once you have seen them you can refuse losing finesses and just take winning ones.

Inner, not boob, tubes

On sports

In case anyone hasn't noticed more Americans are turning to the "good old outdoors" instead of the boob tube for their personal enjoyment.

People are taking up sports like hiking, jogging, swimming and bicycle riding in ever increasing numbers.

What makes people leave the security of their family rooms and the electronic media for a long drive in the afternoon?

"I just get a lot of pleasure out of it. I enjoy meeting all kinds of people on the rides," says Bonnie Powers, who has been the club's secretary since its inception in August of 1971.

What makes people leave the security of their family rooms and the electronic media for a long drive in the afternoon?

"I just get a lot of pleasure out of it. I enjoy meeting all kinds of people on the rides," says Bonnie Powers, who has been the club's secretary since its inception in August of 1971.

When the group began there were only 10 members but now the list has grown to 325. Actually there are about 500 people involved in the program but each family takes up — just one membership.

The Valley Spokesmen are a touring group, not a band of racers. The club averages about three or four rides a week in the summertime and perhaps one or two during the winter.

How did the club get started? "Judi Nicholson, an employee of the Valley Community Services District, thought of the idea of a club in 1971," Powers said. "She thought it would be good to start a program like this in the area."

Nicholson has since moved to Los Angeles but its obvious the club has followed her lead well.

The Spokesmen attempt many ambitious projects, such as riding such rugged mountain peaks as Mt. Hamilton, Mt. Diablo and Mt. Tamapalis in Marin County. At other times the group attempts less awesome projects.

July 31 the Spokesmen will take a 22-mile ride in the Watsonville area. A week earlier they will travel a 25-mile route from Danville to the Lafayette Reservoir.

However perhaps the most interesting excursion the Spokesmen have is the annual Hekaton Classic in September. There will be a maximun 100-mile ride starting in Dublin, traveling to Niles Canyon in Fremont, up to Castro Valley and the redwood area east of Oakland. The ride will continue to San Pablo Dam just west of Orinda.

While the club was started in Dublin it draws members from towns all over Northern California.

"We even have people from San Jose and Sacramento in our club," Powers said. "Our club is open to anybody."

Even people who don't belong to the Spokesmen can ride with the group on its excursions.

"We send our riding schedules to people who have ridden with us but are not members of the club. If they ride with us two or three times and still haven't joined we stop sending our schedules to them.

"Our club fees are small ($2 per individual and $3 per family) so most people can join the club. I have a neat time riding. I think most people would enjoy themselves in our club." Bonnie's husband Bob is also active in the Spokesmen, having been a club president and now ride chairman.

Many of the memberships in the club are complete families so people of all ages belong to it.

It's also a good way to get some exercise, according to Bonnie.

And that's something you can't get from television.

District III tops Germans, 6-3

The District III Al Caffodio All-Stars defeated Braunschweig of West Germany, 6-3, in an international soccer match last night at Dublin High School.

Danny Payne and Billy Hunt each scored two goals for the All-Stars.

Brothers Don and Dave Balcita also contributed goals to the winners

The All-Stars clearly dominated play in the first half by scoring two goals within the first 10 minutes of play.

The first was scored by Payne from a Dave Balcita corner kick. Dave then scored on a corner kick from his brother Don.

Hunt then scored on a shot that deflected off a Braunschweig player.

Payne scored his second goal on a direct free kick following an obstruction foul by a German defender.

The visitors got on the scoreboard on a penalty kick despite goalkeeper Dave Schneider's gallant try at a save.

The Braunschweig attack seemed to perk up in the second half. For much of the period they controlled the ball in the District III zone.

They scored on a another direct free kick through a wall of All-Star defenders. Thomas Brumer then scored the German's final goal on a pass from Wolfgang Hartman.

The All-Stars came back, making it 5-3, on a beautiful cross by Ken MacDonald to Hunt with seven minutes to play, who knocked it past the diving Braunschieg goalie.

The final All-Star goal, this time by Don Balcita, put it out of reach of the team from West Germany.

Nine down, three to go

With Alameda County Fair officials admitting that the meeting will probably not begin at all, the ninth day of racing at the Pleasanton track was scratched for today by secretary-manager Lee Hall, an act becoming a daily routine of his job.

The air is still for racing on a day-to-day basis and racing secretary Charles Dougherty will take entries for Friday and Saturday's potential card's over the next two days.

One-hundred twenty-six horses are standing by for a possible program Thursday afternoon. Hall will announce whether those races will be run today at 1 p.m.

Horsemen have now missed out on $413,500 in prize money as a result of the month-old Alameda County Employees strike.

Wolves, WC take cage wins

Phil Wiltz and Darren Johnson combined for 31 points as Danville whipped Dublin, 51-42, in Allied Brokers Summer Basketball League action last night at Amador Valley High School in Pleasanton.

Wiltz connected on eight field goals while Johnson meshed seven shots and a free throw to help the Wolves pull away from a slim one-point halftime lead.

Trailing just 21-20 at the midway, the Gaels never mounted a strong rally and found themselves down 37-31 after three quarters.

Jim Boulware and Chuck Gangnuss carried the Gaels' scoring load. Boulware canned 11 points, while Gangnuss enjoyed one of his better nights, hitting for 10.

The game was just three seconds from being official when San Ramon High School coach John Clausen and a Dublin player exchanged a few harsh words after a foul call.

The referees intercepted the two on the court, breaking up the trivial melee and calling it quits for the night.

Hayward raised its record to 4-1 with a tight 47-46 win over the upstart Walnut Creek Spartans.

It was a classic see-saw battle. Walnut Creek took advantage of the absence of Hayward's Jim Goudreau, the big 6-4 pivotman, by working the ball inside for many easy baskets.

But the Mariners held on in the final moments on the strength of outside shooting by Bob Telles and Tony Dorado.

Leading 38-37 at the end of the third quarter, Walnut Creek fell behind 43-38 on three quick baskets by the Mariners. In fact, the Spartans did not score their first field goal of the quarter until Bill Cashman hit on a jumper with 2:52 showing in the fourth period.

Dana Snapp then converted a three-point play with 59 seconds left to pull the Spartans into a 43-43 tie. Telles came back, however, canning a jumper to put Hayward up by two.

Snapp scored again for the Spartans with 32 seconds left to knot the score at 45, but Telles again, came right back down at the other end of the court to sink a field goal and give Hayward the frustrating win.

Walnut Creek fumbled away many chances to tie the score in the final seconds. Jerry Pierson was the first goat, missing the second of two free throws with 12 seconds remaining.

BU bogged down in quarters, 2-1

TORONTO, Ont. — The combination of a muddy field and two flagrant violations cost the Ballistic United under-12 soccer team a chance at the championship of the Robbie International Tournament here over the weekend.

Ballistic fell out of the tourney after losing a 2-1 overtime quarter-final match Saturday to Wexford of the host nation.

However, United generated a lot of excitement before departing and gained the praise of their opponents.

"We have beaten the best team in the tournament," announced the Wexford coach after the contest. "We were fortunate to play them on a muddy field."

(Wexford lost to eventual champion Guildwood in a semi-final match, 1-0, before Guildwood beat Annendale, Virginia, 4-1, for the age group crown.)

Ballistic came out smokin', as they have done often in recent weeks, scoring in the first minute on a 27-yard unassisted shot by Frankie Duart.

But, Wexford, more accustomed to the inclement weather that left one-third of the field covered with two to four inches of mud, tallied with two minutes to go in the overtime period to wrap things up.

Friday, Ballistic had beaten Waburn, 3-0, on two Mike Nieto goals, another by Mike Deleray and a Jamie Herwatt assist.

United then topped Chingcacousy, 2-1, as Deleray gained a 1-0 halftime lead for the club with a 10-yard shot after beating the fullback and drawing the goalie out-of-position to the right.

Karl Kesterke tallied 10 minutes into the second half on an assist from David Woodward.

Goalie Scott Wilcox had six saves while Scott Strommer and Woodward held down Chingcacousy star Andre Simpson, who did manage the losers' goal.

Local girls change tune to Ow, Canada

Four of five Valley soccer teams swept all age group championships and allowed only one Canadian goal throughout the Calgary Girls Soccer Invitational Tournament which was held over the holiday weekend in Calgary.

Hospitality was great, according to Pleasanton United coach Chuck Gilliam, but the soccer competition was not up to the Californians' expectations.

"They weren't as unhappy as I thought they would be," commented Gilliam after his under-14 squad stomped through four games, chalking up 28 goals and allowing none. It seems that, because of the weather, Canada's soccer teams must squeeze several games into one short season, while California clubs enjoy ten and eleven month stretches.

The Canadian teams, however, seemed appreciative of the expertise shown to the by the U.S. teams.

"Their (the Canadians) program for girls soccer just got started and we showed them just how good girls can play soccer," said Gilliam. "We started playing with just eight players to keep the scores down," he added.

In under-12 action, Gale Dolsby's Pleasanton United squad marched through four games, scoring 26 goals and maintaining a stingy defense. The Pleasanton club defeated Calgary Arcadia 5-0 in the finals to capture the under-12 crown.

Karen Broderick, Shannon Holleman, Lezlie Lortz, Denise Stennette and Cheryl Young all scored while Cheryl Abreu, Regan Dolsby and Katie Garrigan helped out with assists.

In the semi-final contest, Pleasanton downed Edmonton Crestwood 5-0 as Jamie Entee paced the PU offense with two goals, and Lortz, Maria Merucci and Abreu added one each.

The Livermore Firecrackers made it to the semi-finals via 5-0, 4-0 wins over Edmonton Crestwood and Calgary Brentwood, but the team lost to Pleasanton United under-14 club in the all-local semi by a tough 2-0 score.

Pleasanton United under-14 stomped Glamorgan 10-0 in the semi-final contest as Lisa Thomas' hat trick and two goals each by Mary Hansen and Ann Peterson paced the PU offense. Stacey Smiley, Julie Fernandez and Debbie Stromer each added goals in the win, while Peterson, Smiley, Fernandes and Fruzzetto each had assists.

In the final, PU captured the championship with a 5-0 rout of Calgary North Gl more. Fruzzetti led the scoring attack with two goals, while Thomas, and Kristi Crow each added one.

The Pleasanton Patriots took the under-16 championship with a 3-0 blanking of Edmonton Crestwood. Lynne Fruchtenicht, Carrie McNatt and Jamie Watson each scored in the effort.

In the semi against Calgary Varsity, Watson and Kelly McCole scored twice and Cheryl Withoft once in the 5-1 victory. McNatt, Jayne Kuhns, Sharon Watson and Kim Iverson each had assists.

In under-18 action, the San Ramon Superiors blanked Edmonton Fulton Place 4-0 to grab the title. Cindy Miller led the attack with two goals, while Peggy Baker and Sandy Warburton each chipped in one. P.J. Moore and Monica Panusch helped out with two assists each.

Moore's hat trick in the semi-final contest led the Superiors to a 5-0 whipping of Calgary Lakeview. Kathy Buckowatz managed two goals, while Baker contributed two assists and Miller, Buckowatz and Panusch, one each.

County workers accept 5 per cent hike

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — The County Employes Association has accepted a 5 per cent pay hike and three extra paid holidays.

Other county employe groups are expected to accept similar agreements, with the exception of the firefighters and social workers.

Units representing the District Attorney's and Public Defender's attorneys as well as the Deputy Sheriff's Association have not begun their negotiations.

Personnel Director Charles Leonard announced the agreement with the association Tuesday after the Board of Supervisors returned from a lengthy executive session.

The association represents 25 per cent of the county work force.

In addition to the 5 per cent pay raise, association members will get the Friday before Christmas, New Year's Day and Lincoln's birthday as a paid holiday. Those would be regular county employe holidays but they fall on Saturday during the 1976-77 fiscal year. Contra Costa has never negotiated a policy concerning weekend holiday dates, Leonard said.

Leonard added he expected to bring another settlement offer to the board as early as next week, although he declined to specify which group.

Board Chairman James Kenny of Richmond expressed approval of the agreement, noting the Consumer Price Index had increased almost 6 per cent during the past year.

But, if the supervisors are pleased, the firefighters aren't.

Their attorney, Al Davis, declared Tuesday that negotiations with the county have reached an impasse and called upon the board to either directly become involved in the negotiations or appoint a three-member fact finding board.

Davis charged that the county negotiator's offer amounted to a two per cent increase in salary and benefits combined.

Then he listed several benefit reductions, the net result of which Davis claimed would leave the firefighters 5 per cent poorer than when they started.

Negotiator Richard Biegel later responded to Davis' charges saying the attorney misrepresented the county's offer.

Biegel said he had promised, on the board's authority, that any cuts in one area would be balanced in another.

Further, Biegel said, Davis had only attended two of the nine negotiating sessions involving the firefighters.

This is just one of the many events planned for "I Play Around" Day Friday, from 1 to 5 p.m. at Amador Community Park. Children six to 12 years old can also participate in a sack race, egg toss, wheelbarrow relay, and a few "new games" including a six foot earthball and a rope - tug contest called Hunker Hauser. There also will be a kite flying contest with homemade entries judged on creativity, construction, beauty, and large and small sizes. Playground leaders above are, from left, Cathy Michelsen, Butch Hock, Laurie Morley, Eileen Morley, and Phil Hansen. (Times Photo)

Swim openings remain for future sessions

PLEASANTON — A new round of swimming lessons will begin Monday at the aquatic center.

Most Learn - to - Swim lessons beginning Monday are full, but there is room for students at most levels in later sessions. Sessions begin July 12, 26, Aug. 9 and 23. All offer a complete 10 day series of lessons.

Special classes beginning July 12 with space still available include stroke class for those 5 to 7 years old, stroke class for 8 years and older, intermediate and advanced diving, Advanced Lifesaving, adult lessons in the morning and evening, synchronized swimming and mask, fin and snorkel.

Mask, fins and snorkel is a class designed to teach the basic skills in use of equipment and personal safety while snorkeling. Youngsters must have their own equipment and have completed the beginning course.

Synchronized swimming is offered to girls 8 and older who have completed the intermediate class. Participants will have the opportunity to perform in a water show later in the summer.

American Red Cross Advanced Lifesaving is offered beginning Monday and again Aug. 9 from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at Amador Pool. Those wishing to participate must be 15 and fulfill all swimming requirements including a 500 yard swim. Advanced Lifesaving is a prerequisite for Water Safety Instructor and is needed for most aquatic jobs.

Registration may be completed during recreational swimming hours and from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Monday and Wednesday at the aquatic center. If a child has taken lessons previously, the last card he or she received should be brought to registration. Brochures with more information are available at the recreation office, 200 Bernal Ave. or at the aquatic center, 4455 Black Ave.

Straightening the record

Our photographer was everywhere Sunday to shoot pictures of various valley Bicentennial celebrations and he had a pretty good batting average on his photo captions yesterday, but he made a couple of errors, for which we apologize.

The lady in the wide - brimmed sun hat carrying a small camera and large handbag and talking to Uncle Sam at the Livermore festivities was not Hollie Drummond, as we had said. It was Kattie Richardson.

Hollie Drummond indeed was at the celebration and was wearing a distinctive stars and stripes dress created by a Hawaiian designer.

The woman dressed in an Early American costume pictured with a small model windmill and a tree at the Dublin Faire was Johnny Lovell, not Tine Bloodgood as we incorrectly stated.

Two Pleasanton sites spared EIR need

PLEASANTON — An automotive sales and service facility on Stanley Boulevard and a controversial driveway proposal on Vervais Avenue are among the items which City Manager William Edgar has declared do not need Environmental Impact Reports.

Edgar issued a negative declaration for Frank Auf der Mauer's application for a 7,200 square foot building to be located east of 3440 Stanley Boulevard.

Future street designs near the site could help anticipated traffic problems in the driveway to the building or could make them worse, according to Edgar's negative declaration. However, traffic circulation problems in the near future should not be significant, says the document.

Pleasanton Body Shop wants permission from the planning commission to build a driveway to Vervais Avzmue. Currently the body shop is served only by a driveway on Stanley Boulevard. The same request was opposed a year ago by residents on Vervais Avenue. The planning commission will hear the request July 14.

Edgar also made a negative declaration for an application to add 10,800 square feet to an industrial building now covering 156,222 square feet at 7200 Johnson Industrial Drive. The space would be used for storage and there would be little increase in use from the expansion.

Citizens have until Monday to file an appeal on any of the negative declarations.
